Appliances

Air fryer

It's a kitchen appliance that uses superheated air to cook foods, giving results very similar to deep-frying or high-temperature roasting. Air fryers use the same technology as convection ovens, but instead of blowing the air around a large rectangular box, it is blown around in a compact cylinder and the food sits in a perforated basket. This is much more efficient and creates an intense environment of heat from which the food cannot escape. The result is food with a crispy brown exterior and moist tender interior – results similar to deep-frying, but without all the oil and fat needed to deep-fry.

Bread Machine is a home appliance for turning raw ingredients into baked bread. It consists of a bread pan (or "tin"), at the bottom of which are one or more built-in paddles, mounted in the center of a small special-purpose oven. This small oven is usually controlled by a simple built-in computer using settings input via a control panel. Most bread machines have different cycles for different kinds of dough.

Coffee Grinder

A device that is used to grind whole coffee beans into a suitable size for brewing. Manually operated coffee grinders require that a hand crank be turned in order to move blades that grind the coffee beans. Electric models are available that do the job more quickly and may be more convenient to use.

Crepe Pan

A flat or round-bottomed pan that is shaped to effectively cook a thin crêpe. A flat-bottomed pan may be 8 to 10 inches in diameter with short side walls. This pan is also the type commonly used for omelets.

Countertop Mixer

A countertop mixer with different attachments that blends ingredients, beats ingredients, beat dough or whip eggs. A handheld mixer can do many of the things a stand mixer can, but a stand mixer enables you to work hands free.

Electric Pressure Cooker

An electric pressure cooker consists of a pressure cooking container (a.k.a. inner pot or cooking pot), the electric heating element, and temperature / pressure sensors. The heating process is controlled by the built-in micro-processor based on the readings of the pressure and temperature sensors. This whole process forms a so called “closed loop control system”

Electric Kettle

An electric kettle plugs into an outlet and uses electricity to power an integrated heating element, rather than using a stovetop burner to heat water. Electric kettles come with a power base that uses electrical current to send heat energy directly into the kettle (though not all electric kettles have a separate base).

Electric Skillet - A skillet or frying pan that instead of being placed on the stove is heated by plugging it into an outlet. The best skillets provide an even heating surface, not always the case with stovetop cooking.

Food Processor — An appliance consisting of a container in which food is cut, sliced, shredded, grated, blended, beaten or liquidized. Used to prepare foods.

Hand Mixer — A hand held device that blends or mixes substances or ingredients, especially by mechanical agitation.

Rice Cooker — A self-contained electrical appliance used primarily for cooking rice.

Slow Cooker — An electrical cooker that maintains a relatively low temperature, used to cook foods over a long period of time.

Sous Vide Immersion Circulator

An immersion circulator is a device that you insert into a tub or pot of water. It draws water from the tub, heats it up to a precise temperature, then spits it back out, simultaneously heating and circulating the water.

Toaster Oven — An electrical appliance that can be used as either a toaster or an oven

Turkey Fryer — An appliance used to deep fry turkeys or large birds.

Vacuum Sealer

A vacuum sealer removes the air from the space around your food and then uses a heated seal bar to fuse the sides of the bag, preventing the air from leaking back into the bag. Exposure to air will spoil food or allow it to stale over time, so this process eliminates that threat.

Cookware

Baking Pan — A pan with sides that vary in deepness and are used to bake such things as cakes.

Baking Sheet — A flat, shiny metal tray used for cooking such things as biscuits and cookies.

Broiler Pan — A metal tray used to hold food while broiling under a grill.

Colander — A bowl-shaped kitchen utensil with perforations for draining off liquids and rinsing food.

Double Boiler — A pair of cooking pots, one fitting on top of and partly inside the other. Food cooks gently in the upper pot while water simmers in lower pot.

Dutch Oven — An iron container with lid used for cooking stews or casseroles.

Frying Pan — A pan used for frying foods with a single long side handle, measured in inches and may have either straight or sloped sides.

Pastry Press — Any type of press used to shape or mold cookies.

French Press—French press (also press plunger pot, press coffee, coffee pusher, French Press, plunger pot) is a glass container for making coffee. Hot water is poured onto the coffee grounds, a punch having a sieve is pushed down, keeping the solids at the bottom. It can also serve as a serving pot when the finished coffee is consumed quickly.

Pie Plate — A plate used to serve pie.

Pressure Cooker - A conventional or stovetop pressure cooker is a cooking vessel with a lid that locks on and prevents steam from escaping. As a result, the steam builds up pressure in the pressure cooker – about 12 to 15 pounds per square inch of pressure (psi) – and the temperature inside the cooker increases. That means that we are able to cook foods inside a pressure cooker at higher temperatures, and they are therefore finished sooner – in about one third of the time it would take to cook on a regular stovetop. Time and heat are regulated manually.

Roaster Pan — A pan with deep sides used to cook roast.

Round Cake Pan

round cake pans are used to make layer cakes and are generally found in 8 or 9-inch diameters and are 1 ½ inches in depth.

Sauce Pan — A pan used to cook sauces on the stovetop with a long side handle and straight sides measured in quarts.

Sauté Pan

A sauté pan has a wide flat bottom and vertical sides that generally go up much higher than a skillet's flared sides do. This makes it easier to cook sauces and sear and braise meat than a skillet

Splatter screen does what it says: screens splatters. You put it over the top of a frying pan to keep pops of oil from ending up all over your kitchen (or you, for that matter). It would be helpful when searing meat over very high heat or frying bacon.

Springform pan is a type of bakeware that features sides that can be removed from the base. Springform refers to the construction style of this pan. The base and the sides are separate pieces that are held together when the base is aligned with a groove that rings the bottom of the walls.

Steamer Basket — Metal basket that inserts into a pan. Used for steaming vegetables.

Tube Pan — A round pan with a hollow projection in the middle, used for baking or molding foods in the shape of a ring

Wok

A wok is shaped like a big, deep bowl, and while it's most common in South China, it's used all over Asia, and increasingly in the rest of the world as well. The shape of a wok works particularly well for stir frying; the bottom gets much hotter than the sides, and food can be cooked quickly. The word wok comes from Cantonese, and it was first used in English in the mid-20th century.

Dish And Tableware

Bread Plate — A small plate used to hold bread while eating

Butter Dish — A small dish with cover used to store and serve butter.

Cake Platter—A cake platter is a large serving plate for desserts. The shape is often round, but it may enough to hold virtually any shape and size of cake except maybe a bigger sheet cake. be square or rectangular. It's usually made large

Butter Knife— blunt knife used for cutting or spreading butter or other similar spreads.

Carafe — A glass or metal bottle, often with a flared lip, used for serving water or wine. A glass pot with a pouring spout used in making coffee.

Charger
A charger plate, also known as a service plate or underplate, is a decorative base setting used during each dining course at weddings, banquets, or fine-dining establishments. Each course is served in a separate bowl or plate and placed on top of the charger plate.

Cheese Fork

A cheese fork is helpful on a cheese board for picking up cut pieces of cheese for plating. It can also be used to break up blocks of aged cheese into smaller chunks as well.

Gravy Boat — An elongated dish or pitcher for serving gravy

Meat Platter — A large serving plate

Parfait Cup

Fluted cup designed to serve sundaes and parfaits.

Salad Fork

a small, broad fork, usually one of a set, for eating salad or dessert.

Tea Pot

A pot used for Tea.

Water Goblet

A water goblet consists of a conical-shaped glass with no handle, rising from a stem with a foot. Water goblets vary in style, shape and decoration, and are usually more plain than other types of goblets.

HERBS, SPICES & FOODS

Arborio

Arborio rice is an Italian short-grain rice. It is named after the town of Arborio in Italy. Arborio rice is a variety of short-grain rice used primarily in the classical preparation of risotto. Arborio rice is a short, fat, and slightly oval-shaped with a pearly white exterior. Arborio rice is high in amylopectin, a starch present in rice. It undergoes less milling than ordinary long-grain rice, and so retains more of its natural starch content, cooking releases this starch, giving you a firmer, chewier and creamier rice compared to other kinds of rice.

Basil — An Old World aromatic annual herb (Ocimum basilicum) in the mint family, cultivated for its leaves. Also called sweet basil. The leaves of this plant are used as a seasoning. Any of various plants in the genus Ocimum, native to warm regions, having aromatic foliage and terminal clusters of small, usually white flowers..

Dill — An aromatic herb (Anethum graveolens) native to Eurasia, having finely dissected leaves and small yellow flowers clustered in umbels. The leaves or seeds of this plant are used as a seasoning.

Fennel is a flowering plant species in the carrot family. It is a hardy, perennial herb with yellow flowers and feathery leaves. It is indigenous to the shores of the Mediterranean but has become widely naturalized in many parts of the world, especially on dry soils near the sea coast and on riverbanks

Garbanzo Bean/Chickpea

They are just two different names for one type of legume. Chickpea is derived from Latin and garbanzo is a Spanish word. The chickpea or chick pea is an annual legume of the family Fabaceae, subfamily Faboideae, cultivated for its edible seeds. Its different types are variously known as gram or Bengal gram; chhola, chhana, chana, or channa; garbanzo or garbanzo bean; or Egyptian pea.

Ginger— A plant (Zingiber officinale) of tropical Southeast Asia having yellowish-green flowers and a pungent aromatic rhizome. The rhizome of this plant is often dried and powdered and used as a spice. Also called gingerroot.

Lemongrass is a long thick grass with leaves at the top and a solid portion several inches long at the root end. The lower portion is sliced or pounded and used in cooking. As a spice, fresh lemongrass is preferred for its vibrant flavor, but is also sold in dried form. The dried spice is available in several forms: chopped in slices, cut and sifted, powdered, or as an oil can be extracted from the plant.

Licorice

Licorice is used as a flavoring in confectionery, tobacco, beverages, and pharmaceuticals, and is marketed as a dietary supplement. Licorice is the common name of Glycyrrhiza glabra, a flowering plant of the bean family Fabaceae, from the root of which a sweet, aromatic flavoring is extracted. The liquorice plant is an herbaceous perennial legume native to West Asia, North Africa, and Southern Europe.

Mace — An aromatic spice made from the dried, waxy, scarlet or yellowish covering that partly encloses the kernel of the nutmeg.

Nutmeg — An evergreen tree (Myristica fragrans) native to the East Indies and cultivated for its spicy seeds. The hard, aromatic seed of this tree is used as a spice when grated or ground. A grayish to moderate brown.

Oregano — A perennial Eurasian herb (Origanum vulgare) of the mint family, having aromatic leaves. The leaves of this plant are used as a seasoning. Pungent leaves used as seasoning with meats and fowl and in stews and soups and omelets.

Quinoa—Quinoa (KEEN-wah) is a plant of the goosefoot family found in the Andes of South America, where it was widely cultivated for its edible starchy seeds prior to the introduction of Old World grains. Quinoa was once the staple food of the Incas and was known as “the mother grain” in ancient time, but it's actually a seed with a nutty flavor. It is usually found in tan or yellow form — though it comes in many colors: orange, red, pink, purple and black.

Rosemary — An aromatic evergreen Mediterranean shrub (Rosmarinus officinalis) having light blue or pink flowers and grayish-green leaves that are used in cooking and perfumery. The leaves of this plant are used as a seasoning.

Saffron

Saffron is one of the most precious spices in the world. The thread-like red stigmas—and the yellow hue they impart—are quite literally the stuff of legend.

The spice originates from a flower called crocus sativus—commonly known as the "saffron crocus." Each flower produces only three threads (stigmas) of saffron, and it blooms for only one week each year. Saffron is extremely subtle and fragrant. The slightly sweet, luxurious taste in your paella, buttery saffron rice, and special occasion desserts like saffron-rose water brittle.

Smoked Paprika

the main difference between smoked paprika and paprika is that smoked paprika is made from red peppers that are dried and smoked over an oak fire before they're ground instead of simply being dried and ground. This lends a strong smoky flavor to smoked paprika that isn't present in paprika.

Sumac

Tangy, smoky, earthy, and slightly sour, sumac is an essential spice in Middle Eastern cooking. With its deep red hue and fruity, citrusy flavor, sumac spice is the perfect way to add acidity and color to your meals! Sumac spice that is used in cooking is red, more like a deeper berry color. It comes from sumac berries, which are turned into a coarse powder, sifted. This deep red spice is the main flavor maker in some traditional Middle Eastern dishes

Tarragon — An aromatic Eurasian herb (Artemisia dracunculus) having linear to lance-shaped leaves and small, whitish-green flower heads arranged in loose, spreading panicles. The leaves of this plant are used as a seasoning.
